Not on my watch! The role of organisational resources and emotions in building family firm's resilience

Aula VIII (Lettere), 1-3 pm
8 May 2024

Research seminar

Linda Murphy will present a work in progress paper, co-authored with Elisa Conz. Adopting a multi-level qualitative exploratory approach, the paper discusses how organisational resources and emotions interact in the process of building organisational resilience in family firms during times of crisis.

Dr Linda Murphy is a lecturer in Management at Cork University Business School, University College Cork, where she teaches at undergraduate and postgraduate level. As a family business scholar, her research interests have delved into sustainability in family firms spanning a variety of topics such as careers, socioemotional wealth and organisational resilience.
